

As I understand the NPRM, FM stations like the ones I operate would have to protect LPFM's. Of my six stations, two are class A FM's. My concern is the FCC's desire to continue to squeeze our already tight spectrum and eventually prevent stations such as mine from being able to upgrade facilities (power, tower) all in order to protect LPFM's. This will not have a measurable impact on the larger markets, but in my view will be devastating to small market operators such as myself.
